

The MSc in Marketing Management brings top execs into the classroom

Witness the magic of these exchanges in our new video.

Lille Campus

Students enrolled in the EDHEC MSc in Marketing Management interact with marketing professionals from companies such as Airbus, Nespresso, Apple, and Intel on a regular basis.

These professionals - usually Vice President level and up - come to the campus to meet with students, share their experiences with them, and explain to them how to put their marketing skills and knowledge to work in the real world.

These meetings also give students the chance to ask company representatives about internships and job opportunities, or to seek career advice.

Marketing, Master of Science, Master in Management

Written by LYNN ANDERSON DAVY

April 29, 2015